Dear Reader,

The collection you're about to devour consists of six carefully constructed pieces of work that tie fate and destiny together. I chose this theme for my collection because it's easy to relate to and it's intriguing to think about. When I think back to the highlights of my life, I wonder whether they occurred because of fate or destiny. As a teenager we're constantly travelling down different paths to figure where to navigate our lives. Are the outcomes we finish with fate or did they happen from our own will. These perceptions lead me towards the exploration of fate.

This is an easy theme to create scenarios with because the outcomes are infinite. Little research needs to be done because a lot of the information is common sense. The searching I did was based around facts and unique aspects about the beliefs of fate. As you read I hope some of these aspects teach you different ideas on my chosen theme.

This collection consists of a contract agreement, personal e-mail, fairytale, biography, recipe and a picture. My favorite piece was the personal e-mail because it's based on an amazing book I read this semester. It's told from the perspective of a father to his son. I enjoyed writing this piece because it was easy to relay all the events that occurred throughout the novel and give the story a twist.

Doing research and figuring out a successful way of incorporating the information into the pieces was by far the hardest part of this assignment. Meanwhile the easiest part of the collection was sculpting all my ideas together to form concrete segments.

I have never established a research assignment like this before. This is the most work I've put into one assortment in all my years of high school. The pieces of writing branch out into all the sectors of English I have learned over the years. There's so many different possibilities and skills that can be incorporated.

I hope you enjoy this multi-genre collection based on fate. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Meranda

CONTRACT AGREEMENT

Agreement is made this 6th of January 2016 by and between Thomas
(first party) and Lily (second party).

First Party

Name: Thomas

Signature: Thomas

Date: January 6th, 2016

Second Party

Name: Lily

Signature: Lily

Date: January 6th / 2016

Recitals

- I. Fate and destiny are the course that life takes.
- II. Karma is an influencing factor.
- III. Your fate is determined by a combination of conditions and factors.
- IV. A person's fate is never 100% settled.

Definitions

- Fate- the development of events beyond a person's control, regarded as determined by a supernatural power.
- Destiny- the events that will necessarily happen to a particular person or thing in the future.
- Love at First Sight- when a person feels romantic passion for a complete stranger upon his or her initial encounter with the stranger.

Agreements

In the following agreement, it will be decided whether or not Thomas and Lily were determined to be together by outside forces and fell in love at first sight or if they planned their events to coincide with each other. Terms state that they must swear on oath to be fair and willing to try new things, experience life together, take personal time for each other, chase your dreams, and love each other.

If the duo is determined by fate then they will proceed on a journey of blind punches and if true love gets them to the end of the road, they will end at holy matrimony. The supernatural forces aren't to be reckoned with and this agreement states both Thomas and Lily understand this.

If fate hasn't paired these two lovebirds together they must depart and go their separate ways. The only love that will be tolerated on this Earth is if they're genuine matches that have been untouched and remain pure.

Scientific Outlook

The couple will undergo a series of tasks that will determine the scientific reaction/ fate of the couple. Biological chemistry will show how the couple reacts to seeing each other. If the hormone dopamine is released, their senses will become heightened and their excitement will increase. (Avery-Stoss)

Similarity and proximity will be noticed in the process. The couple may be together due to the fact that they have easy access to one another. Fate or destiny may have navigated them to this distance. Opposites attract and this is a strong connection two people can make. If the couple is equally unlike and alike then they fit into the sector of fate.

Time is one of the most important things to contribute in a relationship. In order to make things work, both sides must put in equal effort and endurance to make things work. A strong relationship requires attention to the different altitudes from good times to the tough.

Requirements & Milestones

Thomas and Lily have until the next full moon to determine whether or not they are soul mates. On the 24 day of January they must have their conclusion ready to present to the court. Following the full moon, the pair must meet again on January 25 to discover the settlement at stake.

The Moon is a powerful symbol and is believed to be ideal for magical activities. The moon stands for deceit, veiled forces or psychological ability. (Love spells) The moon can also pinpoint secrets or hidden facts which are coming forward and that's why this force is used for determining the fate of love.

Subject: You're the Messenger by Fate

To my son,

There was always potential in you son but you never dug deep enough; you were too much like your old man. As I walked the streets to sober up at night, I was plotting a routine of events for you to embark on. 45 Edgar Street was the perfect location to send you to first because this gave you a sense of what you were going to be dealing with along this journey. My goal was to scare you and then push you of your comfort zone Ed. No man should ever treat his lady as this meaty gruesome man did and you made him disappear. Then I brought you to Milla knowing you would be the perfect company. You were her Jimmy and you company was worth more than anything in the world. 6 Macedoni Street showed you pure beauty and passion. Sophie was insecure about her ability to run and your gift to her was nothing. She performs best in barefeet and all you had to do was show her this.

Your second card was a black club with eight simple words on it. You thought you had a secret spot in this enormous world but there are eyes everywhere. Your special rock that you escaped to was the perfect place to assign you your next three hints. You were presented with Thomas O'Reilly, Angie Carusso and Gavin Rose. You have grasped the fact that you need to do something to change these exotic lives and how you made an impact was all up in the air. I have faith in you.

Spades represents the power of darkness, as an experienced cards player you know this is the most dangerous suit. This card is scribbled with three names: Graham Greene, Morris West and Sylvia Plath. Your goal was to search book titles for the addresses and to your knowledge you would retrieve 114 Glory Road, 23 Clown Street and Bell Street. By spending your time and money, you are benefitting other families. All the Tatupu family needs is a brand new set of Christmas lights. Clown Street is where I revealed your mother's secret. She had another man that wined and dined her and made her happy, I watched these affairs happen for quite some time, it broke my heart but your mother was so happy. Don't be too hard on her, I wasn't good enough for her liking. The final address on the card takes you to a dungy movie theatre where a generous old man works. Making the most of your visit will put a smile on Bernie's face.

Hearts will be the hardest card for you fulfill but it's the most important to the ones you love. The Suitcase, Cat Ballow and Roman Holiday are all movies and you know you can rely on Bernie to help you solve the final piece of the puzzle. Roman Holiday led you to Audrey, Cat Ballow led you to Marv and The Suitcase led you to Ritchie. This card will leave you with a path of wonderful and eerie experiences but the point of this crazy game was to prove one thing. You can do anything in this world, don't sell yourself short.

Love,
Your old man

Biography of Shai

God of Fate & Destiny

Shai was the Egyptian god of fate and destiny. He was born with each individual and also classified as a god.

Shai was birthed during the 18th Dynasty and survived through many dark Egyptian times. Depending on the spot light of Shai's powers, he was intersexed; he could play the role of a man and a woman. During his female duration, he was referred to as Shait. (Shai) Some of Shai's unique characteristics range from positive to negative outcomes. Being the God of fate and destiny leaves a lot of responsibility sitting on your shoulders. He has the power to protect people or bring their lives down with misfortune.

A common Egyptian saying was "Shai and Renenutet are with you." (Shai) This was used as a greeting and it was meant to remind people that destiny and fortune were always with them. Renenutet is the goddess of great power and plenty of good fortune.

In the temples he is referred to as Shai of all gods. (Shai) Shai's hands cradle the fate and destiny of all gods. In Egyptian scripture it states that no-one can ignore Shai. (Shai) Nobody can ignore the fate that comes their way a they can't ignore Shai.

Shai had his own during the 18th Dynasty but little information was shared about this group. All we know about this religious group is that there was a second priest of Shai involved. Shai was a well respected God for the master of fates, duration of how long their lifespans were, and who would be with them when they faced their final destiny.

Under the circumstances that Shai is the God of fate and destiny, he was believed to be married to two goddess' over his course of existence. Egyptian's believed he was married to Mesenet, goddess of birth, or Renenutet, goddess of fortune. Being married to either of these goddess' would bolster his powers.

How to Accept Your Path

Ingredients

- 6 hefty cups of distraction
- 2 cups of ambition
- 1 ½ cups of perseverance
- 1 cup of positivity
- ¼ cup of open mindedness
- 1 tsp of experience

Procedure

- I. Use 2 cups of ambition to fuel yourself to exhaustion trying to change the outcome of a situation.
- II. Next, use ½ cup of positivity to ensure yourself you can done everything you can to climb the rocky cliffs.
- III. Following this step, you will use up 1 ½ cups of perseverance because even though you don't have the ability to change fate, you will put in the work required to achieve success.
- IV. Another ½ cup of positivity is needed to convince yourself of the proper focus at state.
- V. Measure a teaspoon of experience and sprinkle the fine powder over the past to replenish how familiar and comfortable you are with a situation.

- VI. Fate will throw you curve balls and you may not understand why you received this passage, use the helpful ¼ cup of open mindedness to expand your train of thought.
- VII. The last and most important ingredient for the recipe towards the acceptance of fate is 6 hefty cups of distraction. There's no better way to await what life is going to bring you along the road besides distracting yourself with the present.

Hopefully this recipe will help you travel along the rigid paths that are to come through your life. Fate is going to bring positive and negative obstacles your way; it's your job to determine whether you're a write off or superman.

The Hendricken's

Family pictures don't happen often in my family; this photo dates back to 2011. Fate brought Jennifer and Robbie together in high school and then by chance of a random draw they welcomed two daughters into their lives. This gift was also destined by fate. Family is a strong representation of how random individuals merge together into the perfect mess. My family and I have our highs and our lows, but that's healthy. Fate brought us all together and fate will keep us tightly wound until it's time for the course of life to change.

I have a wife, I have daughters: all of them hostages given to fate.

Personal Words on the Multi-Genre Collection

The strength of my project ranges from color and organization to creative ideas. I believe these aspects are what I excel in because I have a passion for organizing information and making it easy for others to find my work. I also enjoy adding color to projects that make the work more appealing to the eye.

I learned that it's hard to incorporate strong evidence when you already have your own generalization of the theme you're researching. I was left with quite a few dead ends in my research and this was also very frustrating. From now on I will choose themes that are research friendly rather than complex themes that require digging and assuming.

This project was presented as a blank slate so I decided I was going to write six different pieces that I usually don't get to create. This project has opened up new genre styles such as contracts, recipes and person^d e-mails. These were my favorite three pieces to write because they were unique from any other style of writing. I was able to personalize the layout however I wanted and also incorporate certain information without requirements.

If I had a do-over for this assignment, I would leave myself more time to sit down and take my time on the pieces of work I wrote. Come the end of the semester, I find it extremely hard to concentrate on ideas and be creative. I know that this will be one of my biggest downfalls with this collection.

Something else I think you should know is take into consideration that creating six different pieces of work from scratch while twisting in themes and research. This was the purpose of the assignment but it was very difficult to combine all these aspects efficiently.

I now have a deep respect for writers because a lot of work and effort goes into five hundred words let alone a whole novel. Writers can successfully write books and it seems so easy. There must be a super power I didn't inherit from my parents.

I found that the informational text was by far the easiest genre to write about. I personally feel that the two articles from this section are my strongest pieces because I enjoyed creating them the most. It was easy to think of information to support my pieces. The hardest sector to write was the nonfiction pieces. Integrating real life facts into creative pieces was truly hard because I mixed my words and experts words together.

If I was given more time to work on this project I would have put more time and effort into each individual piece of writing. The easiest pieces to write were the one's I was familiar with from books or experiences. I would try and find more examples of fate that I could educate myself with to create solid ideas.
